

ALOE VERA CERTIFICATES

Our aloe vera supplier is proud to present many quality certificates. See for yourself.

Certificate of quality, issued by the international non-profit company The International Aloe Science Council, based in the USA and dealing only with aloe vera.

The members of this organisation are planters, processors, producers, but also doctors and scientists. These representatives support aloe vera and its use in various products - beverages, medicines, skin care, etc. The manufacturer of the raw material aloe vera, from which ESSENS products are made, is the holder of several certificates relating to specific products of this company.

Certificates awarded by the American company OCIA International Organic Certification, founded in 1979, are a testament to the quality of agricultural operations and food companies, all in accordance with ecology and the environment, i.e. without the use of chemical sprays and genetic modifications. Certification is not only required by law in the USA, and all categories are subject to it: farms, processors, producers, etc. Certificates thus guarantee customers organically produced raw materials.

Certificate of the Mexican company VIVA HALAL A.C. specialises in the certification of products intended for the Muslim market, i.e. in accordance with Sharia - Islamic religious law.

FSSC 22000

The FSSC 22000 certificate relates to the fulfillment of food safety requirements and was issued by GlobalSTD, an internationally recognised certification organisation performing audits and conformity assessments in accordance with the requirements of international standards. The FSSC 22000 certification is based on existing ISO standards and is fully recognised by the GFSI (Global Food Safety Initiative). It is intended for the certification of food safety systems for manufacturers focused on the production or processing of animal and plant products, food packaging or food supplements.

The certificate of the Mexican company Supervisores Kasher guarantees that the products meet the kosher label, i.e. that they are acceptable in accordance with Jewish law.

The guarantee of quality is that the aloe vera supplier regularly undergoes very strict recertification.

In addition to the above certificates of quality and origin, the raw material are tested and certified by a "Declaration of Conformity" with all regulations and standards in force in the European Union.
